

The International Association of Geomagnetism and Aeronomy joins the International Science Council's recent statement (https://council.science/wp-content/uploads/2020/06/Statement-by-the-International-Science-Council_Ukraine_28.02.22.pdf) in expressing its deep dismay and concern regarding the Russian attack on Ukraine which violates international law. We are deeply disturbed by the humanitarian consequences for the Ukrainian population and our scientific colleagues.

The International Association of Geomagnetism and Aeronomy is a global, politically neutral organization that encourages the free exchange of scientific information and aims to facilitate international collaboration among researchers from all countries. We are appalled by Russia's military actions, and we deeply regret their impact on human freedoms, in particular academic freedom. We stand in full solidarity with the Ukrainian people and with our scientific colleagues in Ukraine, Russia and elsewhere that have been placed at risk or become displaced, directly or indirectly, by Russia's aggression, disrespect for international law and intolerance to dissent.

The IAGA Executive Committee